

DECA's College DivisionDelta Epsilon Chi

DECA's college division is called Delta Epsilon Chi. More than 13,000 students from 200 campuses participate in the organization. The institutions include community colleges, technical colleges, four-year colleges and universities.

Delta Epsilon Chi enhances the student's college experience by providing recognition and leadership activities directly related to classroom study.

Delta Epsilon Chi members are at various stages in their educational lives, enabling our members to fit into a variety of employment stages. Delta Epsilon Chi members may be:

1. Full-time students right out of high school
2. Experienced workers returning to school to change careers, upgrade their skills or start a career after raising children
3. Working full or part-time while going to school
4. Working on an Associates Degree with plans to move on to a four-year college
