PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

1. Give an example of how education and training can affect lifetime income.

2. Compare the costs of post-secondary education with the potential increase in income from a career of choice.

3. Discuss how non-income factors such as child-care options, cost of living and work conditions can influence job choice.

EVENT SITUATION
You are to assume the role of an admissions counselor working at a local four-year public university. One of your job responsibilities is to meet with high school juniors and seniors that may apply for admission and discuss not only the university, but also the overall decision to attend a post-secondary institution.

Your next appointment is with a high school student (judge) in Circle County who has not yet decided whether or not to attend college. The student (judge) is interested in working in education, but does not think that earning a degree in education and becoming a teacher is necessary. The student (judge) feels that getting a job as a teaching aide right out of high school will be much less expensive and less time consuming.

Regardless if the student (judge) attends your university or not, you must showcase to the student (judge) the benefits of attending a post-secondary institution and how it can affect future endeavors. You may use the information below, if needed:

Circle County School District:
Teacher Aide – starting pay $9.00/hour, annual 2% cost of living increase, additional $2.00/hour after each consecutive five years of employment; a teacher aide would work eight hours each day for 180 school days annually.
Teacher – starting pay $45,000/year, annual 2% cost of living increase, additional 4% increase after each consecutive five years of employment

Annual tuition for residents at local public university:
Without room/meals: $8,900.00
With room/meals: $16,100.00

You will discuss how education affects career choices and income with the student (judge). You must also discuss non-income factors that may affect career choices.

You will meet with the student (judge) in your office. The student (judge) will begin the meeting by greeting you and asking to hear about the benefits of attending college. After you have presented the information and have answered the student’s (judge’s) questions, the student (judge) will conclude the meeting by thanking you for your work.

JUDGE SITUATION CHARACTERIZATION

You are to assume the role of a high school student in Circle County with an appointment with an admissions counselor (participant) working at a local four-year public university. One of the admissions counselor’s (participant’s) job responsibilities is to meet with high school juniors and seniors that may apply for admission and discuss not only the university, but also the overall decision to attend a post-secondary institution.

You have not yet decided whether or not to attend college. You are interested in working in education, but do not think that earning a degree in education and becoming a teacher is necessary. You feel that getting a job as a teaching aide right out of high school will be much less expensive and less time consuming.

Regardless if you attend the university or not, the admissions counselor (participant) must showcase to you the benefits of attending a post-secondary institution and how it can affect future endeavors. The admissions counselor (participant) may use the information below, if needed:

Circle County School District:
Teacher Aide – starting pay $9.00/hour, annual 2% cost of living increase, additional $2.00/hour after each consecutive five years of employment; a teacher aide would work eight hours each day for 180 school days annually.
Teacher – starting pay $45,000/year, annual 2% cost of living increase, additional 4% increase after each consecutive five years of employment
Annual tuition for residents at local public university:
Without room/meals: $8,900.00
With room/meals: $16,100.00

The admissions counselor (participant) will discuss with you how education affects career choices and income. The admissions counselor (participant) must also discuss non-income factors that may affect career choices.

The meeting will take place in the admissions counselor’s (participant’s) office. You will begin the meeting by greeting the admissions counselor (participant) and asking to hear about the benefits of attending college. After the participant has presented the information, you are to ask the following questions:

1. I definitely don’t have enough money to pay for four years of college. Would taking out a student loan be bad because it will put me in debt?

2. What other education and training opportunities are there besides four-year universities that can lead to good employment options?

Once the admissions counselor (participant) has answered your questions, you will conclude the discussion by thanking the admissions counselor (participant) for the work.

You are not to make any comments after the event is over except to thank the participant.
