CASE STUDY SITUATION

You are an entrepreneur with an idea for a new concept restaurant, NOSTALGIA. Your idea for this unique restaurant recently turned into reality when an investor expressed interest in your endeavor.

The idea for NOSTALGIA was spurred when having a conversation with friends about the beloved foods of childhood that are no longer considered appropriate to eat. The restaurant would serve up nostalgic foods, such as chicken nuggets, macaroni and cheese, tater tots, pizza bites, fruit cocktail, grilled cheese sandwiches, and the like, with a gourmet twist. The foods would all be served as small bites rather than as a full entrée. Customers would be able to share, ordering more than one menu item at a time.

NOSTALGIA would also be different than traditional restaurants in décor. The set up would not have many traditional tables, but instead showcase a living room or dining room set up, featuring couches, coffee tables and comfortable armchairs.

The restaurant would also feature a bar for patrons who want to dine alone or simply enjoy a beverage barside. The drink menu would feature fun concoctions made with fruit juices and punches from childhood.

The interested investor has asked for more information regarding NOSTALGIA, before making a final decision on funding.

YOUR CHALLENGE

The investor has asked you to determine market planning for NOSTALGIA. The investor wants to know the following information:

- Primary and secondary target markets for the new restaurant (to include age, socio-economic status, marital status)
- Ideal location type (city size and neighborhood type: suburb, downtown, college area, family neighborhood, city center)
- Appropriate days/hours of operation for NOSTALGIA based on location type
- Methods to market NOSTALGIA to primary and secondary target markets
- Types of promotional material need to be developed for successful marketing

You will present your market planning recommendations to the investor in a meeting to take place in the investor’s office. The investor may be accompanied by additional interested parties.

You will receive 2-3 questions from the judge pertaining to the case situation.
