CASE STUDY SITUATION

You are the director of marketing for CROSS-COUNTRY AIRLINES, an airline that services cities in North America. CROSS-COUNTRY is smaller than the major airlines and must share its hub with another airline. CROSS-COUNTRY will soon make a large international airport in a southern U.S. state its hub.

The large airport is already hub to SKYWAY AIR, one of the three top airlines in the nation. SKYWAY AIR operates out of three of the six terminals at the airport. The remaining three terminals are for multi-use among the other airlines. The large airport is one of only two in the nation that allows the dominant airline to manage concessions and retail space within its terminal.

When CROSS-COUNTRY moves its hub to the large airport, it will be operating one entire terminal. This allows CROSS-COUNTRY to design the terminal space. CROSS-COUNTRY will have control over the restaurants, shops, products and services provided to customers waiting in the terminal.

Currently, the terminal is basic and minimal in its offerings. There are restrooms, drinking fountains, rows of seating at each gate, one restaurant, one coffee shop and one retail shop. The restaurant is a national fast food chain and the coffee shop is the most well-known coffee chain in the world, common in every city. The retail shop is a typical airport retail store that sells magazines, books, snacks, beverages and souvenirs. There are four more storefronts in the terminal that have never been put to use.

YOUR CHALLENGE

The director of corporate real estate for CROSS-COUNTRY AIRLINES has asked you to develop the airline’s terminal at the new hub airport. The director wants you to determine:

- Products and services needed by air travelers
- Types of restaurants to include in the terminal
- Types of shops to include in the terminal
- Methods to ensure the terminal is enjoyable, as well as functional

You will present your recommendations to the director of corporate real estate in a meeting to take place in the director’s office. The director may be accompanied by additional executives from the company.

You will receive 2-3 questions from the judge pertaining to the case situation.
